

Dedicated TYPO3 Expertise—Built by Building TYPO3

b13 are TYPO3 experts. Our knowledge goes beyond simple implementations. Our staff includes contributors who help build and maintain significant parts of the TYPO3 core and extensions to the CMS. This deep knowledge means we can put together custom-tailored solutions with TYPO3 that no one else can. We like clients who challenge us and we love applying our expertise to solving tough, new problems that we don't know how to solve ... yet!

At b13, we work to keep leading in-house expertise in every core technology we rely on. We are the largest community contributor to the TYPO3 content management platform¹ and our experts deliver long-term performance, reliability, and results in every project.

We say “no.” We like to take new and difficult challenges we've never solved before, but we will never gamble the success of your project on expertise we don't have. Your investment in our TYPO3 know-how will pay off in solutions that deliver you maximum business value, stability, and ROI.

Expertise Through Contribution

Our expertise is built by building TYPO3. We build our expertise through direct involvement and contribution in our core technologies. We're not just experienced in delivering TYPO3 projects, we take part in building the CMS itself. Agencies that do not contribute back to the open source tools they use, can save time initially. However, not participating and giving back to the software community you rely on means you can lack important deep expertise and could need extra time when difficult problems arise. Contributing to open source software is an invaluable way to learn from and gain experience. We find contributing to TYPO3's core more effective than any classroom course.

Most important contributor to the TYPO3 project every year since 2015.

Multiple TYPO3 CMS core contributors on staff, including the TYPO3 Project Lead.

Many of our team members have one or more official TYPO3 certifications.

We Also Say “No”

We are experts in what we do and how our expertise can bring you the best results. We also know we have to keep learning to remain up-to-date and the right to keep calling ourselves experts. Inexperience or hubris has been the downfall of many a project. Failing to spot important challenges early on can lead to expensive errors down the road. If we don't think we can provide you the best solution possible to your challenges, we will happily introduce you to another agency, if we think they can do it better.

We don't take on clients or projects that aren't a good fit for us.

We only promise what we know we can deliver, and make clear agreements.

We don't gamble with new technologies, but choose those we know can do the job.

TYPO3 + b13: Low TCO, High ROI

At b13, we're looking to build you the best solution, not the most expensive one. Even if we earn less on a given project, our first priority is tangible results and websites that maximize your return on investment. Without proper planning and expert execution, large, custom, or complex solutions can become expensive—very expensive. One of the most important choices you make is choosing your technology implementation partner. With the right expertise, even a heavily customized TYPO3 solution will consistently deliver peak results, reducing TCO and increasing ROI, year after year.

Good choices make for efficient projects.

Maximize return on investment by reducing your long-term cost of ownership.

TYPO3 is an ideal, maintainable, open-source software platform.

Making People the Strongest Link

Every person at b13 brings something important to the table besides TYPO3, for example, international experience, volunteer work, industry-specific knowledge, and much more. We are a close-knit team anyone's specialty is available to all of us. And we invest in everyone's improvement. We are about more than experience and excellence in TYPO3 projects. Our greatest strength is how our team can pull together as a team around a project for the benefit of our clients.

Our teams share their expertise for your success.

Our “family” approach to our company makes us better prepared and more resilient in the face of unexpected events.

We live by the old adage, “Chance favors the prepared mind.”

Grow With Performance, Reliability, and Maintainability

With a TYPO3 built by b13, your website will meet your needs now and in the future. We make applications that run fast, are secure and maintainable, and can scale with you to any size as you grow. Our working methodologies strive to deliver value with every line of code. TYPO3 expertise isn't just about knowing how to implement a given feature. We also comprehend the complex effects even simple changes can have in a large and growing installation. At b13, we add structure and document the project to deliver true TYPO3 quality.

Great performance is the result of an expertly executed TYPO3 project.

Reliable expertise brings reliability to your online presence.

We deliver “next level” websites and applications with our CMS of choice, TYPO3.
